PROUD SPONSOR OF SRFF!
Dear SRFF Friends,

SR Socially Relevant Film Festival New York welcomes you to Cinema Village. This year we focus on women and children in conflict zones to draw attention to the plight of the two most vulnerable groups who pay the highest price in the face of the impunity enjoyed by their perpetrators. Our spotlight film is on the life and work of 2018 Nobel Peace Prize Laureate, the Congolese Dr. Denis Mukwege who courageously continues to combat the use of sexual violence as a weapon of war and armed conflict.

The attacks on indigenous women and First Nations peoples in Canada who are repeatedly murdered and mutilated with the obvious intention of eradicating them, is nothing short of Genocide. In Piripkura, a documentary from our slate this year, we hear a language spoken the last two survivors of an indigenous group in Brazil. The world does not heed the damage caused and continues to develop and construct with no respect for human lives and values. We hope to shine the spotlight on these values and sound the alarm as they become threatened. Our films portray women as victims, and men in vulnerable situations, yet they also celebrate empowerment, success and survival. In short, they show the ordinary lives of the extraordinary.

The SRFF team is grateful to everyone who contributed to the success of our past five editions. This festival is a collective effort and without everyone’s help, it is not possible to bring it to fruition. I am deeply indebted to our board members, to our dedicated festival team, and to our interns from China, France, Korea, Morocco, Brazil, the UK and the USA, who worked tirelessly on this sixth edition. A word of thanks is due to our new group of volunteers, here to help during the festival week. Special thanks to the talented SRFF filmmakers, past and present, for resisting commercial dictates and telling socially relevant stories. Thank you filmmakers. Our International Jury members view the films, deliberate, and pick the winner. We thank you jury members for your dedication and diligence.

Like previous years, we offer workshops, panels, roundtables, and script readings in addition to networking opportunities and happy hours. Words of appreciation and gratitude are due to our distinguished panelists who generously accept to donate their time, and share their hard-earned knowledge to inspire a new generation of filmmakers. Thank you, panelists.

We are proud to enjoy the support of foundations, granting bodies and businesses such as the New York State Council on the Arts, The City of New York Department of Cultural Affairs, LMCC, The German Consulate General of New York, Fairway Law Firm in Paris, The Aurora Humanitarian Initiative, Dutch Culture and Apco Worldwide, and the support of our partners who share our vision. We could not chart this journey without your help. Thank you, our sponsors and partners!

Why have a film festival if not to share it with like-minded people, and establish dialogue for rapprochement with others? Dear film lovers, socially responsible citizens, audience members and now our friends, this is your festival.

Take a seat and be moved!

Nora Armani
Founding Artistic Director
SR Socially Relevant Film Festival New York
March 16, 2019

Dear Friends:

It is a pleasure to send greetings to everyone gathered at New York City’s Cinema Village for the sixth annual edition of SR Socially Relevant Film Festival New York.

The Empire State is the crossroads of the cultural world, and a focal point for those with the passion for making great films and cinematic art. Since the earliest days of motion pictures, Manhattan has drawn a diverse community of filmmakers who provide a broad perspective on contemporary social issues by exploring both unique and universal themes that reflect various aspects of the human experience.

Today, filmmakers of all backgrounds continue to bring compelling stories to the big screen in various genres – from full-length productions, to documentaries, to short features. This year’s festival promises to be another insightful and enriching cinematic experience that introduces the works of talented and creative minds, certain to captivate and inspire audiences. Such artistic expression is important and I applaud this celebration of visionary ideas that help build bridges among cultures and countries through the powerful medium of film.

Warmest regards and best wishes for a successful event.

Sincerely,

ANDREW M. CUOMO

“In the Video Diary Workshop I will guide filmmakers into the exploration of the visual clues hidden in locations which can be used to trigger your creative imagination for future projects. Narration nowadays is a visual experience. In order to promote our movies in Cannes or other venues, a script, or a synopsis is no longer sufficient. Filmmakers are asked to provide Mood Boards, Visual Pitches and Visual References. Teasers are often required. We go Visual. The idea of the workshop is to give you some advice on how to gather visual informations and reorganize them into a narrative thread to serve your development process.” Preceded by the Screening of Bari Upside Up, 10min.

The Man Who Mends Women - The wrath of Hippocrates
Thierry Michel & Colette Braeckman | Belgium | 2015 | 112'

Winner of the Nobel Peace Prize in 2018 and the Sakharov Prize 2014, Doctor Mukwege is internationally known as the man who mends thousands of women raped during the 20 years of conflicts in the East of the Democratic Republic of the Congo, one of the poorest countries on the planet despite its extremely rich sub-soil. His endless struggle to put an end to these atrocities and denounce the impunity enjoyed by perpetrators is not welcome. The women to whom he has restored physical integrity and dignity stand beside him as true activists for peace and justice.

More than 60% of the people in Bombay actually reside in houses of 10x10 feet or worse. ‘10x10ft’ revolves around a newly married couple, who is frustrated, as they have to share a one room house with the groom’s parents. This frustration is further increased by the fact that getting a bigger space is a leisure that they can’t afford in this city of crowded homes and cramped desires.
